LLOYD GEORGE DUBS ITALY'S INTENTIONS "SHAMELESS RAPINE"

VIOLENT ATTACK

ITALIAN PRESS AGAIN DISPLAYS VINDICTIVENESS

Britain's Incurable Pride And Jealousy
LEAGUE USED FOR OWN PURPOSES

Rome, To-day.

An attack almost unprecedented in violence against Britain is made in the "Popolo di Roma." It says that the squabbles at Geneva were, concluded by the demagogic speech by Sir Samuel Hoare.

"The British make the League work for their own interests and business. They make it serve their home and foreign policy, their insatiable hunger for land, water and monopolies, and their incorrigible pride and jealousy."

"The idealism of Sir Samuel Hoare has a different attitude for every contingency. Let Sir Samuel Hoare tell the inhabitants of Mars and the moon about Britain's fidelity to the Covenant. The much-vaunted British idealism towards the League is only the screen behind which Albion does what she pleases and serves her own purpose."—Reuter.

WIRELESS OPERATORS ON STRIKE

Eleven Ships Held Up In New York

UNION NOT RECOGNISED

New York, To-day.

The wireless operators on 11 ships, including the American trans-Atlantic liner Scamory, due to sail to Europe, struck a few hours before sailing. All the ships except one are passenger ships and cannot legally sail without wireless operators.

The strike leaders are trying to hold up all American vessels refusing to sign an agreement with the American Radio Telegraphers' Association.

The strike followed the failure of the operators to obtain recognition of their union, higher wages and better conditions by negotiations with the American Steamship Owners' Association.—Reuter.

HUEY LONG LAID TO REST

100,000 Line Streets Of Baton Rouge

Baton Rouge, To-day.

Dressed in a dinner-jacket, which he seldom wore during his life time, Senator Huey Long was buried under a simple marble slab in the grounds of the State Capitol. Five of his closest political friends were the pall-bearers.

The cortege threaded its way through 100,000 spectators, accompanied by the band of his "Poor State University boys"—Huey's last words—playing "Every Man a King," composed by Huey and now transposed into a minor key.—Reuter.

Abyssinia Impressed By Sir S. Hoare's Speech

EXPLOSION IN COAL-PIT NEAR BARNSELY

15 KILLED AND 7 INJURED

FIRE CUTS OFF RESCUERS

London, To-day.

Fifteen miners have been killed and seven injured in an explosion in a coal-pit near Barnsley.

The explosion occurred at North Gawber mine at Mapplewell, 450 feet below the ground, and was followed by a fire. Some 160 men were working in the pit at the time. A rollcall showed that 38 were missing.

The rescuers, struggling against stone and dust, brought to the surface 25 men alive and five bodies. They found that a fierce fire cut off the remainder of the missing, who are believed to have been killed by the flames.

The injured men have been admitted to hospital, and all are seriously hurt.—Reuter.

CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT BILL REJECTED

NARROW DEFEAT AT SIMLA

ATTEMPT TO WRECK COMING CONSTITUTION

Simla, To-day.

The Government of India's Criminal Law Amendment Bill, designed to deal with terrorist outrages, has been rejected by the Assembly by 71 votes to 51. It is understood that the Government will certify the Bill.

Sir Nripendra Nath Sircar, the Law Member, replying to criticisms of the Bill, said that if the objective of the Opposition was to wreck the coming constitution, they certainly could not expect gratitude for this measure, but rather thunder and fury at measures calculated to embarrass the wreckers and help the working of the constitution.

Mr. Bhubhai Desai, the leader of the Opposition, declared that the Opposition's desire for the rejection of the Bill was the obvious logical outcome of their rejection of the whole Government policy, which was contrary to the will of the people.—Reuter.

NEW MOTOR FUEL TESTED

Wood-Gas Substitute For Petrol Succeeds

Rome, To-day.

An Italian motor-car has just returned here after completing a 6,000-kilometre tour through 10 European countries, using wood-gas as the motive power.

The results of the test, it is said, have been extremely satisfactory, and have aroused great interest in view of the recent Government decree that motor-buses throughout Italy must gradually substitute wood-gas for petrol as the power generator.—Trans-Ocean Service.

POLITICAL STALEMATE ACHIEVED

Kuomintang Session Postponed

NANKING WANTS MORE TIME

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day.

Political stalemate has set in here following the announcement that the Sixth Plenary Session of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee has been postponed from September 20 to November 1. Some political ripples were stirred by a rumour that Mr. Lin Lu-yin, member of the South-west Political Council, would go to Shanghai on a certain mission, but this story was promptly denied.

The postponement is to enable the Kuomintang members attending the Session to take part in the Fifth Kuomintang Congress on November 12. This postponement is to save the busy Kuomintang leaders and representative the trouble of travelling back and forth.

Party veterans were about to draft resolutions to be submitted to the Session on September 20, but since the gathering has been put off to November 1, the drafting work is suspended.

The Nanking Government wants more time to consider future relations with Japan and will submit the terms to the Sixth Plenary Session for approval and confirmation, according to Shanghai press dispatches.

EMPRESS'S APPEAL INTERFERED WITH

FOREIGNERS MAY SERVE WITH ABYSSINIAN ARMY

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Addis Ababa, To-day.

A deep impression has been made here by Sir Samuel Hoare's speech, which has been translated into Amharic and is being distributed as a leaflet throughout the country. The speech, it is said, has greatly encouraged the Government, who declare that Abyssinia will stand firm and offer no further concessions to Italy than those already made. The Emperor himself still hopes that England will be able to avert war, and his radio speech for to-day is being awaited with eager interest.

FRED PERRY WEDS

MARRIED TO FILM STAR

Harrison, New York.

Fred Perry was married to the films star Helen Vinson just before midnight, the ceremony being performed by a Justice of the Peace. Miss Vinson is aged 27 and the marriage statement revealed that she was divorced from Harry Vickerman, of Los Angeles, in 1934.

Harrison has recently celebrated a number of runaway matches.—Reuter.

STOP PRESS

The many personal friends and colleagues of His Excellency the Officer, Administering the Government, Sir Thomas Southern, K.B.E., C.M.G., will learn with anxiety that His Excellency has been found to be suffering from an attack of appendicitis, which necessitated his removal to the Victoria Hospital last night. An operation was performed this morning, which is stated to have been satisfactory.

An official announcement states that the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, Acting Colonial Secretary, will act as Governor during His Excellency's illness, and the Hon. Mr. E. A. D. Forrest, the Senior Assistant Colonial Treasurer, will act as Colonial Secretary in Mr. Smith's place.

Ballot papers will be issued from time to time concerning the condition of His Excellency.

The radio talk in French and English delivered to the women of the world by the Empress on Tuesday was unintelligible everywhere, except in Abyssinia, on account of deliberate interference by some other transmitter, it is now learned.

In this appeal, which was intended as a reply to the daily Italian propaganda in six languages transmitted by the short-wave station in Rome, the Empress called on heaven to protect Abyssinia from the "civilisers," who only bring sorrow and havoc in their train.

"Mighty armies," said the Empress, "are preparing to invade our land under the false pretence of bringing civilisation to our peaceful agricultural population, which lives in communion with God and nature. Italian mothers suffer as much as Abyssinians at the thought of the irreparable losses which war causes. Abyssinia's conscience is clear, and she extends a brotherly welcome to all who come here in order to work honourably."

FOREIGNERS TO SERVE

The decree prohibiting foreigners from serving with the Abyssinian army has now been rescinded by the Negus. Those members of the Swiss and Belgian military missions, now of

WEATHER REPORT

A strong anticyclone has formed over the Central Yangtze Valley; it is considered by the committee of the extending southward. Deep depressions are situated over the north and south parts of the Sea of Japan, both moving north-east. At 6 a.m. the typhoon was about 400 miles to the east of Manila, moving north-west. North winds moderate to fresh; fair, was the forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory this morning.

LEAGUE MUST SHOW FIRMNESS

WARM TRIBUTE PAID TO SIR S. HOARE

LAVAL MAY SPRING SURPRISE AT TO-DAY'S MEETING

London, To-day.

Mr. Lloyd George, speaking at Plymouth, said: "It is quite clear that Signor Mussolini is not open to any argument or any appeal. He is not even open to offers of reasonable economic concessions which might meet the legitimate requirements of his country."

He regretted to say that he had never doubted what Signor Mussolini meant. The League must be determined in its attitude and action in the face of this act of shameless rapine.

He was confident that the country as a whole, without any distinction of party, would support the Government in any decision that might be reached to implement the League Covenant, provided that the action was effective.

He praised Sir Samuel Hoare's speech as outspoken, lucid and straightforward. He said that Sir Samuel rose to the height of a very great occasion.

Geneva: "Whatever may happen in the end, nobody shall say that the British Government and its representatives have not made every possible effort to avert what we believe would be a great calamity," declared Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, in a broadcast speech, describing the most vivid impressions of the last few days.

Sir Samuel said he was deeply struck by the respect with which "our country and indeed, the whole of the British Empire" is held by the world. He felt over and over again the weight of the responsibility of representing a Government to which so many countries seem to be looking for guidance and advice.

"I tried to put to them the typical British viewpoint, and in particular to express to them our universal desire, firstly, to live and let live in peace; secondly, to keep our word, solemnly given in the Covenant of the League," he declared.

Sir Samuel Hoare expressed the hope that "in striving for these two objectives and doing justice in Abyssinia we shall still be able to remain friends with our Italian ally in the Great War. More than most people I hate the idea of a difference between Britain and Italy."

AMERICAN ATTITUDE OUTLINED

Important Statement By Cordell Hull

NEW APPEAL TO ITALY AND ETHIOPIA

Washington, To-day.

A new appeal to Italy and Ethiopia not to go to war was made by Mr. Cordell Hull in a statement, which emphasised the peaceful ideals of the United States and called on all the signatories of the Kellogg Pact to observe their pledge to maintain world peace.

Mr. Hull said that he viewed with deep concern the recent developments, which appeared to constitute a threat to world peace. "The Government and people of the United States believe that international controversies can and should be settled by peaceful means."

(Pointing out that 62 nations signed the Kellogg Pact, Mr. Hull said: "Under the conditions prevailing in the world to-day the threat of hostilities anywhere cannot but be a threat to the interests, political, economic, legal and social, of all the nations.")

NOT INVOKING KELLOGG PACT

"Every nation has the right to ask that no nation shall subject it and other nations to the hazards and uncertainties that inevitably accrue to all from a resort to arms by any two."

Officials of the State Department hastened to emphasise that Mr. Hull was not invoking the Kellogg Pact, but merely calling on all the parties concerned to make a further effort to avert bloodshed.

PACT OF PARIS

Mr. Hull concluded: "In goodwill to all nations the American Government asks those countries which appear to be contemplating armed conflict to desist."

ITALY MAY MODIFY ATTITUDE

PRESS ATTACKS ON BRITAIN CEASE

FRENCH TROOPS SAIL FOR DJIBOUTI

Geneva, To-day.

A change in the intractable attitude of Italy is believed in some quarters to be possible.

They express the opinion that Baron Aloisi may now be prepared to discuss the terms contained in the memorandum based on suggestions of the committee of the League of Nations.

The report will be submitted to both parties and will constitute the final offer of conciliation which the committee is prepared to envisage.

It is assumed that the report will deal with the questions of general morale and police, and apparently also the question of territorial concessions.

Silk Becomes More Popular

Cottons Still In Demand

BLACK TAKES NEW LEASE OF LIFE

The new clothes all have a festive look, as if they were meant only for going places—where good times will be had by all. While cottons are still very much in demand, even for casual little formal, silks are beginning to assume more importance as the season advances toward fall.

Satins catch the eyes of those who are vacation-bound, as well as those who are staying in town to gad about evenings. And black is beginning to come back into the picture, even though it may be combined with white, as it is in the dinner dress with the much tucked white chiffon top.

There is many a knowing woman who would never dream of budging an inch away from home for a summer vacation without taking along a camel's hair coat.

VEST TREATMENTS IN NEW FUR CAPES

Some of the new waist-length fur capes are combined with vest treatments. They may be attached fur vests or they may be a fabric such as satin, which fits under the cape and holds the back in place.

Increased Formality In Precious Furs

FASHION DECREES KNITTED CLOTHES

For Afternoon And The Evening

Paris. Perhaps you thought hand-knitted clothes had gone for ever.

Nothing of the kind. Lucien Lelong has put them right back on the map. Not just hand-knitted sweaters of the plain and purr pattern that we all knitted a few years ago, but smart hand-knitted suits for the afternoon and wrap coats.

More than that, he uses knitted fabrics with beautiful materials and luxurious furs.

An evening wrap of off-white and brown Italian brocade has a hand-knitted brown wool lining and knitted facing for the collar revers.

Fox Fur Trimming. Silver fox fur trims a black hand-knitted coat, it borders a scarf hand-knitted from bright red wool to form the front of a black wool dress.

Such clothes are not for the day time only. Smart women will soon be wearing hand-knitted evening capes. One made from fine black wool was relieved with radiating panels in silver grey.

There are also knitted capes for smart sports girls. They fit close round shoulders and reach half-way between hips and knees.

One cap of green wool had narrow "stripes" of red wool introduced at the back.

TO-NIGHT at the STAR

Ermine And Mink For Luxury

SUPPLENESS MAKES FOR BETTER STYLES

Always, the more formal stylings are reserved for the precious furs—mink, white fox, ermine. This season a greater, far more emphasised formality is seen in the fashioning of those furs.

As befits a season when so many style trends and national influences are swaying the mode, these wraps for evening show imagination that would not have been considered possible of expression until now, the modeling of a medium like furs—even furs of such elegance as those designated by the word "precious."

Better Styles Now

Now that furs have almost the suppleness of fabric, it is possible to work them into all sorts of elaborate stylings. As a result, we have capes in long, regal lines, with collars built up like angular frames, the frame effect accentuated by inner facing of a fur in contrasting colour. For instance, fine eastern mink may be pointed up with such a trimming of white ermine, with the ermine continuing in bands down the centre front.

The hooded cape, dramatising luxurious fabrics elsewhere in evening fashions, is represented in furs, too, making a striking effect when appearing in full length, topped off by a hood which may be worn as such, or draped about the shoulders.

Ermine Cost

The ultimate in the manipulation of fur is accomplished in a full-length coat of white ermine showing the shirred panels that bring the fullness to the front in the same manner as many of the highest-style cloth coats. Elaborately draped sleeves that concentrate all the soft bulk of the silhouette in the upper part of the coat are also noted in coats of this type.

BLACK POPULAR IN FORMAL HATS

Black is the predominating colour now in formal hats, but Italian reds, greens and browns are much talked of.

1—He proper bid is one spade, but the West player deliberately bid the weaker suit in the hope of inducing no-trump bidding by his opponent.

2—The kind of vulnerable overcall that sometimes results in a set of around 1,400 points.

3—"He who says A must say B." North feels none too happy about bidding to game, but circumstances compel him.

West opened the five of spades, and East's Jack forced the King. Declarer could count only eight tricks—five clubs, the spade King and the two red Aces. There was no development play for a ninth trick in sight. The only course was to cash all the clubs to force discards and hope for some sort of end-play.

On the clubs West discarded two diamonds and a heart. East discarded one spade, one heart and one diamond. South let go a diamond.

The inference was obvious to declarer that West held the King of hearts. While his diamond bid must be discounted, it was probable that he held at least the King, otherwise East probably would have high-sighted in the suit. If West held both red Kings he would have to guess which red suit to lead if he were allowed to run. A diamond lead would probably set the hand, but declarer's only hope was to put West to the guess.

Declarer therefore led a spade and West ran his three tricks. With King and small in each red suit left, West made the persuasive wrong guess and led a heart, giving declarer his contract.

London.
After a wife had told the Bournemouth Bench how she had followed the advice of Mr. Hore-Belisha, the Minister of Transport, by watching the speedometer of her husband's car while he was driving, the Bench dismissed a case against the husband.

He had been accused of exceeding the 30 m.p.h. limit in a built-up area. Defendant, Alfred Mitchell, Liverpool-road, Maghull, Liverpool, pleaded not guilty.

Not More Than 30
Mrs. May Mitchell, his wife, said that in his broadcast recently Mr. Hore-Belisha had asked all motorists' wives to see that their husbands did not exceed the limit. "So I was watching the speedometer," she added, "and it did not show more than 30 miles an hour."
Police evidence was to the effect that the speedometer of a police car showed Mitchell to be travelling at 26 miles per hour.

Elimination of New York "tweed-shops" conditions (typically represented in the centre), through the movement of garment factories from New York to the country, with workers residing in farm-homestead communities, is the objective of the garment workers' groups which have started a model community near Hightstown, New Jersey, with federal aid. Photographs show (top), Max Blitzer, leader of the project; the farmhouse (left), that now is the headquarters of the community; and a typical garden started by a worker.

Gamblers on the day's run are keen students of the Gulf Stream, some of them almost conveying the impression that they have a controlling influence over its movements. But it is a fickle jade and often upsets their calculations, as does the demon fog.

When, in due course, the ship passes Ambrose Channel Lightship, the exact time is noted and termed "arrival." The total time on passage is then divided into the total mileage, and we have the average speed in knots and tenths.

Off New York

Ambrose Lightship is moored in the centre of New York Bay. It carries a powerful flashing light, also a siren, a radio beacon and a submarine bell for guiding ships in thick weather. The pilot boat cruises a couple of miles inside the lightship, and the ship, having stopped to embark a pilot, proceeds a distance of 14 miles up the channel and anchors at the Quarantine Grounds for examination by the Port Medical Officer and the Immigration Officials, and the mail is discharged into tenders.

She then proceeds another 10 miles up the harbour to her dock, where she is nosed into berth by a fleet of tugs. The record-breaking voyage (if records are broken) is over.

POLICE MAKE A MISTAKE

Two Innocent Men Arrested

London.
At Stratford recently Arthur Tresadern, 40, jeweller, Wall-wood-road, Deytonstone, and George Milton, 26, canvasser, in Tresadern's employ, Hereford-street, Bethnal Green, were charged on remand, having been on bail with being suspected persons loitering at Studley-drive, Ilford.

Both accused were discharged.

Mr. Sanders, for the police, said the prisoners were arrested after being seen by officers calling at different houses.

Buying Old Gold

When arrested Tresadern said he was buying old gold. A quantity of old gold, a file, spring balance weight and a bottle of nitric acid was found on him.

Det-Sergt. Remnant stated when Tresadern's house was searched a quantity of old gold was found. The police were satisfied that he was a genuine dealer in old gold, and had been to the dealers in Clerkenwell, to whom he sold what he bought. He had a licence to deal in plate. He had borne a good character since 1922.

Mr. Garcia, defending, submitted that the police had made a mistake.

HELPED BY THE QUEEN'S VOICE

Shell-Shocked Man's New Confidence

INCIDENT DESCRIBED OVER RADIO

London.
How a few words spoken by the Queen to a nerve-wrecked ex-soldier so restored his lost confidence that he feels he can "face the world again" was described recently by the man himself.

Before the war he was a professional man.

Since then, owing to shell shock, he has been cared for by the Ex-Services Welfare Society, which has curative homes in Kent for those suffering from mental disorders and an industrial centre at Leatherhead for those who have recovered.

Royal Visit

The man's new hope came with a visit paid by the King and Queen to one of the society's institutions.

"I was attending an exhibition where we were showing electric pads and blankets made at the homes," he said. "I was standing alone at our stall while the chief salesman was away for a few minutes when the Queen walked up and spoke to me."

"I was almost petrified with fear, but she smiled and asked me questions which I managed to answer. My confidence was restored and I felt that I could face the world. Having talked to the Queen, I felt that I could talk to anyone."

Told By Broadcast

The incident was referred to in a broadcast on the work of the society recently by an "Unknown Soldier."

"It may surprise Her Majesty to know," he said, "that by speaking to one man who had shunned his fellow men for years after the war she enabled him to recover his confidence."

"The Queen spoke to him at first he was paralysed with fear, but managed to respond to her kindly smile and questions with the result that today he is the best salesman in the industrial centre."

To live a healthy normal life, he asserts, everyone should go to bed at 7 p.m. and rise again at midnight.

The following of such a Spartan rule, he says, according to a Helsingfors newspaper, will avert all danger of neurasthenia and similar nerve troubles. Experiments conducted by the professor on school children are stated to have given beneficial results.

TIME RIPE TO SELECT COLONY'S INTERPORT BOWLS TEAM

All Points Must Be Given Due Consideration

LEAGUE LEADERS' SENSATIONAL DEFEAT BY DOCKS

McKelvie's Four In Limelight

POSSIBLE TIE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

(By "Skip")

One of the most outstanding results in the Lawn Bowls programme last Saturday was the sensational defeat of the potential League Champions, Craigenrower "A". To say that J. McKelvie, by winning against the hitherto undefeated U. M. Omar would not be entirely fair to the other rinks. Rather let it be said that the Dock's team, revealing unerring accuracy in the building up of the heads, and taking full advantage of the lie when the position favoured them, has contributed to this year's bowling records what I consider to be one of the best performances of the season.

J. McKelvie, on his form just now, is almost certain to be included in one of the Interport rinks next month. Hast, J. Revie and J. Kempston, under their skip's able direction, have developed wonderfully during the course of the last two months. But all honour is due to R. Lapsley and his men who held so grimly on to a rink that threatened time and again to leave them hopelessly behind. They ultimately finished only four points in arrears to the Craigenrower four, skipped by R. F. Luzz.

Glen-Cooper's Four

Glen-Cooper and his three willing assistants, Cullen, Humble and Greig, had the measure of their opponents from the very beginning, and, as a matter of fact, should have won by a greater margin of shots. Still, to defeat Bradbury's quartette by a score of 17-13 on the Valley green is a very fine return indeed.

The position at the top of the League table is now as follows: There is a faint possibility of both the Recreio and the Kowloon Bowling Green Club equaling the number of points secured by the leaders, but to make this possible, Craigenrower "A" would have to lose their next two matches and the Recreio and the Bowling Green must win theirs.

Craigenrower "A" have to meet the Indians and the Kowloon Bowling Green at home, and, should have no difficulty in defeating the Indians at least. It is very unlikely that they will be displaced from their position as leaders.

Remarkable Collapse

In the contest between the Police and Craigenrower "B" the most remarkable collapse of Moss's rink is something that requires ample explanation. The chief reason seemed to be that Moss and his men did not overcome the ground difficulty to anything like the same extent as did Arculli, Field, Brightman and Duncan.

H.K.F.C. RINKS FOR FRIENDLY GAME

The following have been selected to represent the Football Club in a friendly game to-morrow:

J. H. Gilling, F. Anslow, J. Russell and E. Tuck (skip).
A. Humphrey, A. Steven, N. Currie and A. Jackson (skip).
F. Morgan, F. H. Glover, A. McKellar, and A. Brookbank (skip).
G. Stephens, J. Dobson, A. Macfarlane and F. H. W. Haynes (skip).

After a long absence R. Lapsley was again seen 'skipping' for Kowloon Docks last Saturday. He will be at the helm again to-morrow.

DUNCAN TO MEET BRADBURY

Enters Third Bowls Final

MITCHELL TOO SHORT ON MOST HEADS

(By "SKIP")

By beating G. N. Mitchell by 21 shots to 19 on the Kowloon C. C. green yesterday afternoon, R. Duncan qualified to meet B. W. Bradbury in the Final of the Colony Lawn Bowls Singles Championship. Like Bradbury, Duncan has never reached the Final before. He has now reached the final of all three Open competitions this season.

Yesterday's game was marred by an unfortunate incident. Midway through the game Mitchell drove with his last bowl and flicked the jack to lay the shot. As Mr. Tacchi, the umpire, went forward to inspect the head he discovered that the string had snapped. Mitchell evidently thought that the jack had gone into the next rink making it a burnt head and accordingly began to throw the woods back for a re-play.

Head Re-Played

On inspection after the string had been joined it was discovered that the jack still lay inside the precincts of the rink. Mr. Tacchi studied the rules, but, after some discussion, it was decided to play the head over again.

Taking a general survey of the game it did not produce a very high standard of bowling. There were far too many short woods, especially by Mitchell. Both players favoured medium heads, and if Mitchell had played more short heads the result might have been different.

Duncan demonstrated his weakness when driving, for on nearly every occasion he played this shot it was narrow.

THE THREE RINKS I WOULD NOMINATE

J.E. NORONHA YOUNGEST POSSIBLE "CAP"

ASSOCIATION'S WISE MOVE

(By "Skip")

WE are now very near to the time when a final decision will have to be made by those responsible for the selection of the Interport Bowls team to represent the Colony against Shanghai in October for the Prentice Cup.

We need not feel anxious concerning the merit of our bowlers. I have seen so many skillful exponents of the game during the course of the last few weeks that I am quite certain we will put up a magnificent fight, and I will be bitterly disappointed if we do not win.

Our chief difficulty is blending this talent into three quartettes, whose temperaments will permit them to work in such a manner together that victory for us will be ensured. This, as anyone will readily admit, requires careful reflection and a fair knowledge of the character of the men chosen.

The three rinks in my estimation, should be composed as follows:

U. M. Omar (skip) J. C. Brown No. 3. B. W. Bradbury No. 2. A. S. Russell No. 1.

The first three players mentioned are all well known, while Russell, who once turned out regularly for the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club, is now with the K.B.G.C. and is already, although only in his second year with the club, the present holder of the Champion's Cup, which he won in 1934.

A. M. Holland (skip), A. W. Grimmitt No. 3, J. McKelvie No. 2, and E. G. Post No. 1.
L. Guy (skip), C. G. Silva No. 3, R. Duncan No. 2, and J. E. Noronha No. 1.

Reserves:—R. F. Luzz, J. V. Ramsey and F. J. Jones.

Other bowlers I have in mind are A. Hyde-Lay, J. Shepherd, J. Badding, J. C. Chalmers, H. G. Cooper, A. R. Dallah, H. A. Alves, J. Cavanagh and R. Lapsley.

These are all men on whom absolute dependence can be placed.

Zone Games Abolished

The H.K.L.B.A., by excluding the zone matches from this year's programme, have acted very wisely indeed, as, after all, these contests were of very little interest to anyone.

The Shanghai team is considered in some circles to be the best ever sent to Hong Kong.

The Shanghai team is as follows:—J. W. Brierley (Y.B.C.), C. W. Glover (S.L.B.C.), J. M. C. Lopes (Lusitano), J. Munro, C. Richards and W. H. Train (S.L.B.C.).

If this combination turns out to be better than the set of bowlers who were here in 1927 captained by R. C. Atkinson, head, and who won so easily from the pick of this Colony by 31-17.

WALLACE DOES WELL IN LOCAL BOWLS

Open Champion And Interporter

MOST NATURAL DELIVERY

Very few bowlers in Hong Kong have the distinction of having won the Open Singles Championship and figured prominently in the Pairs and Rinks Championships as well, but R. C. Wallace of Taikoo, is one of them.

Wallace had not thrown a bowl in his life until he came to Hong Kong, but he took it up the game here in 1914 and played regularly for the Taikoo R.C. during his first year and continued to play for them, except during the years when he was on Home leave, until three years ago, when he more or less retired from the game.

He was nothing if not a credit to his team, and it has been said of him that he has the most natural delivery of anyone playing the game in the Colony.

INDIAN SOCCER ELEVEN TO TOUR BRITISH MALAYA

Mohammedan Club To Tour

CHAMPIONS OF CALCUTTA SOCCER LEAGUE

Calcutta, Aug. 30.

The Mohammedan Sporting Club of Calcutta, champions of the local football league for 1934 and 1935 and without a doubt one of the strongest football combinations in India, are leaving Calcutta at about the end of next month for a tour of Burma, British Malaya, Ceylon and Southern India.

Arrangements for four matches in Rangoon have already been made but nothing definite has yet been done about the Malaya programme.

If the Straits Chinese F.A. or any other representative body are interested they might write to Khan Sahib S. A. Rashid, honorary secretary, Mohammedan Sporting Club, 44, Gorachand Road, Calcutta.

Proposed Tour

The team hopes to go from Singapore to Colombo, where St. Michael's Club, the leading civilian club in that city, have made arrangements for their stay.

Four matches will be played in Colombo and then Madras, Bangalore and Hyderabad will be visited.

Mohammedan Sporting Club's players have been drawn from all over the country and it will be interesting to see how they will fare outside India.

N.U.B. MEMBERSHIP REACHES 500

The National Union of Boxers, founded last year to protect the interests of the lesser-known professional fighting men, has already achieved a membership of 500.

"I GOT CLASS I HAVE" SAYS LEVINSKY

THE BELL, LOUIS AND FINIS

BLACK MENACE'S QUEST FOR WORLD CROWN

London, August 7.

"King" Levinsky met Joe Louis, the 22-year-old Detroit negro heavy-weight, in the Chicago ring last night. "I got class, I have," announced Levinsky. The bell sounded and in that was another fight finished!

Whatever the day of Levinsky, it has certainly ended now. At his best he was most remarkable for his extravagance, as a ring clown he was far behind Max Baer. He got $5,000 for last night's appearance of two and a half minutes. Louis' share is $9,000.

Louis' Hopes Realized

Louis hopes that Baer will be his next opponent (negotiations are complete, and the fight takes place on September 27); then Schmeling; then Neusel; and so on to a fight with Braddock for the heavy-weight title. Baer may come into line, but Schmeling talks about $30,000.

If there is one thing that can be counted upon in the affairs of boxing, however, it is that an all-conquering Louis would be shut out from the world championship because of his colour.

It is his misfortune to be the greatest black heavy-weight since Jack Johnson.

FORTHCOMING ACTIVITIES REVIEWED

PRIZE MEETING AND INTERPORT

REPLY FROM SINGAPORE AWAITED

The Council of the Hong Kong Rifle Association has issued some very interesting notes on the Association's forthcoming activities, particularly with regard to their annual Prize Meeting which takes place next year, and the Interport contest which, it is proposed, will be held sometime in November or December.

In relation to the Prize Meeting, the Council hope to establish a Clay Shooting event, but this is entirely dependent upon circumstances.

The Association have already communicated with the Singapore and Shanghai Rifle Associations with a view to re-organising the Interport shoot, and are now awaiting replies from these two bodies.

1936 Prize Meeting

The Association will hold its annual Prize Meeting at Easter next year. The Meeting will comprise a United Services Meeting, (which by permission of His Excellency the General Officer Commanding, as regards the garrison here, will take the place of the Area Rifle Meeting), open to serving personnel of the Royal Navy, Royal Marines, Regular Army and Royal Air Force.

This part of the Meeting will be held during the first half of the week and will be followed by the local "Bisley" Meeting, open to present and past members of the Services, Volunteers, Police and members of affiliated Rifle Clubs. The provisional prize-list is of the value of $2,000, which sum it is hoped to increase considerably, if entries permit. The Meeting will be held on the Army ranges at Kowloon City.

In Chinese Tennis Team For National Games

Kuala Lumpur, September 5. Miss Gladys Loke, daughter of Mr. Alan Loke, has been added to the Malayan women's lawn tennis team to compete in the Chinese Olympiad in Shanghai next month.

ALLISON WINS

Wood Loses Final In Straight Sets

Forest Hills, To-day. Wilmer Allison achieved one of the outstanding feats of his lawn tennis career yesterday when he won the United States Lawn Tennis Singles Championship by beating Sydney B. Wood, the 1931 Wimbledon champion, by 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Allison has recently been playing at the top of his form, and his greatest feat during the present championships was when he beat Fred Perry, the Wimbledon Champion and former holder, in straight sets in the semi-final round.

Lionel Ross-Pereira, above, will lead the Colony's forwards against Shanghai in the water-polo match on the final night of the Interport Swimming series.

PROMISING TEAM

CHAMPION ATHLETE AS FULL-BACK

IP SHUI MING TO CAPTAIN SIDE

TEAM HOPES FOR GRADUAL RISE

(By "Rover")

The Railway Recreation Club who last year made their debut in the Third Division of the Hong Kong Football League have again entered and hope to make a better showing than before.

This season it is the intention of the Committee to select players from the departments enjoying the week-end holiday, so that it will always be possible to field the same team each week. Last year, relief had to be found for the players on duty, and this was not always possible.

Enough Players

Last season the Railway were aided by a few outsiders, but this season they have enough players in their own Club to form a worth-while team.

Most of last year's players are available and there are several newcomers, among whom are Li Hung Chuen, a back, Cheung Chuen, centre-half, and Chan Chun and Sung Chow, forwards. Li Hung-chuen, will be playing at right-back. He is the athletic champion of the Club and possesses a strong kick besides being very fast.

Good Newcomer

Cheung Chuen, a newcomer, will occupy the centre-half position. He is very good and fast but, unfortunately, on the short side. He is, nevertheless, a great help to the defence.

Chan Chun, a forward, is reputed to be well up to Third Division standard while Sung Chow, on the left-wing, is their best forward and far above any of last year.

Ip Shui-ming has again been elected captain of the team. He will play at left-back.

Rest Of Team

The rest of the team will be composed of Li Hung, goalkeeper; Wing Ming-hui, and Leung Chuen, halves; Leung Yung-kan, Lau Cheung and Fung Chi, forwards, all of whom played last season.

The reserves to date are Cheung Cheung-hong forward, and Poon Yuk-sui, half, both of whom played in several games last season.

Having a ground of their own, the Railway have already had several practice games and have been shaping well. They should be able to give a good account of themselves in most of the Division matches this season.

LAWSON LITTLE IN SEMI-FINAL

TO MEET GOODMAN IN AMATEUR GOLF

Cleveland, To-day.

W. Lawson Little, the British and United States amateur golf champion, yesterday entered the quarter and semi-final rounds of the U.S. Amateur Golf Championship where he beat McCullough 5 and 3 in his Fifth Round tie and Voigt 4 and 3 in the Quarter-Final Round.

Other Fifth Round results were: Johnnie Goodman beat Meister 6 and 5.
 Fred Haas beat Nash 4 and 3.
 Emery beat Held 5 and 3.

 Jack Minger beat Harry L. Givan at the 19th.
 Voigt beat Turness 1 up.

In the quarter-finals, which were completed yesterday afternoon, Lawson Little, the holder, beat Voigt 4 and 3, Emery beat Minger by the same margin, while Goodman continued in brilliant form to trounce Kocsis 6 and 5. Lynch

INTERPORT SWIMMING

HONG KONG WATER-POLO TEAM PICKED

SELECTORS SPRING SURPRISE

YESTERDAY'S TRIAL GAME

(By "Crawl")

A very strong Interport water-polo team has been selected to represent the Colony against Shanghai on the final night of the Interport series, and includes two Chinese members, the rest being members of the Victoria Recreation Club first team.

Chan Shek-pui, is easily the best custodian in the Colony, but Chan Chan-hing, though very fast, is not as good as Wong Suen-man, and his selection as a right-back comes as a surprise. Gittins has played himself into the team and partners Chan at full-back.

The selectors have surprisingly selected W. Lawrence to play in the pivot position, not forgetting that he has two strenuous events to swim in beforehand, the quarter-mile and the 100 yards Back Stroke!

Good Attack

The forward line is as good as can be got anywhere in the Colony, the Rosa-Pereira brothers supplying the main danger, with Dr. Laing in support.

The Interport Team

The Interport and Rest of the Colony teams are:—

INTERPORT TEAM
 Chan Shek-pui (Athletic); Chan Chan-hing (C.R.C.) and S. V. Gittins (V.R.C.); W. Lawrence (V.R.C.); C. Rosa-Pereira (V.R.C.); L. Rosa-Pereira (V.R.C.) and Dr. Laing (V.R.C.).

Reserves:—W. F. Kerr (Y.M.C.A.) and Chan Fook-sing (Chinese Civil Service).

REST OF HONG KONG
 M. M. de V. Soares; N. Delgado (V.R.C.) and Ng Kam-chuen (C.R.C.); Lee Yee-long (Mak Ngal Assoc.); R. Silva-Netto (V.R.C.); A. A. da Rosa (V.R.C.) and Shek Kam-pui (Mak Ngal Assoc.).

Reserves:—Wong Suen-man (Mak Ngal Assoc.) and H. L. Osoiro (V.R.C.).

BRADMAN IS NOT GOING TO SOUTH AFRICA

Denies South African Newspaper Report

Adelaide, August 8.

Don Bradman denies the report, published in a South African newspaper that he is almost certain to visit South Africa with the Australian cricket team at the beginning of next year.

"I am definitely not changing my mind, and I will not be available," he said.

THEY JOIN FULHAM FOOTBALL CLUB!

Brilliant Amateur Players

Fulham F.C. have made an addition to the amateurs who will be at their disposal. William Charlton has signed for them.

Charlton, who is an Oxford Blue and a Corinthian, played for Barnet until business took him to Hull. He was out in three Second Division games for Hull City last season.

Charlton, fast and as game as they make them, was centre-forward for Middlesex Wanderers on their Norway tour. He impressed the Norwegians.

Fulham should be able to find a place for a player who is six feet in height and weighs more than 12 stone, especially when skill is added to physical advantages.

Another amateur who will occasionally assist Fulham is John Frederick Lock, the Wimbledon forward. He also is of more than average size.

DERBY'S PROFIT

A profit of £5,690 on the past year's working is reported by Derby County F.C.

Leung Shui-man, above, probably China's finest sprinter, will coach the Hong Kong Chinese swimming contingent for the China National Games to be held in Shanghai on the Double Tenth—October 10.

QUEEN'S P. R. WIN FOR FIRST TIME

Queen's Park Rangers, after sharing two goals with Brighton in their first clash in the Third Division (South), yesterday won by the odd goal in five in their return clash to record their first win of the season, while in the Third Division (North) Halifax held Carlisle to a goalless draw in their away fixture, following their home win by an only goal—Reuter.

Pat Peterson, Thomas Beck and Warner Oland will be seen in Fox Film's latest thriller, "Charlie Chan in Egypt," which is coming shortly to the King's Theatre.

SHORT SHOTS

It is good news to hear that Walter Hudd has been chosen by Korda to enact the part of "Lawrence" in this great man's life history. This young actor will be remembered for old-timers here, when he toured the Orient with the Courtneidge-Holloway Co. as juvenile lead. I knew him well then, and his future seemed a most promising one. Later I met him in London, when he had signed with Basil Dean, and then again in Los Angeles, where he was appearing with Colin Clive in the stage version of "Journey's End." This will, of course, mean the biggest thing in his career, and it will not only be because of his likeness to Lawrence that he will succeed; the lad has real talent.

Myrna Loy has not yet returned to the M.G.M. studio, and is still in New York, as she is sticking out for five times her present salary. Those in the know think Miss Loy is making a big mistake.

It is excellent news that M.G.M. will star Edna May Oliver in the play "Tish," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, which was originally bought for the late beloved Marie Dressler. It will be re-written to suit Miss Oliver's own style.

Anna Sten will make a film in England, and Aubrey Smith, after going all the way over to appear in "Soldiers Three," cannot wait till production starts as there seems no sign of its starting for some months. Maureen O'Sullivan, who was to have appeared in it too, is still in Hollywood and will shortly start on the next "Tarzan" picture, and at the same time be leading lady with Edmund Gwenn in "The Bishop Misbehaves" for M.G.M.

Ida Lupino will be leading lady in the Paramount production "Milky Way" with Harold Lloyd.

Janet Gaynor, with her mother and a nurse, has gone to her home in Honolulu, as the little Fox star has to rest after her recent accident which necessitated her leaving the cast of "Way Down East."

Julie Hayden who made such a hit with Noel Coward in "The Scoundrel," is to be leading lady with Lee

Warner Oland and Pat Peterson are shown here in a scene from "Charlie Chan in Egypt," which will be shown at the King's Theatre soon.

Tracy in "The Bright Star," the play which brings him back to Broadway.

Louise Rainer, the new sensation at M.G.M., will probably play the part of "Anna Held" when "The Great Ziegfeld" (with William Powell as the star) goes into production.

Dick Powell and Anne Dvorak have been borrowed from Warners to play in the Paul Whiteman musical for Twentieth Century-Fox.

Ernest Lubitsch surprised everyone by marrying the Press-agent of Sari Maritza (Patricia Detering Nathan of Tientsin) and now Lewis Milestone has married a Miss Kendall Glazner.

Loretta Young, on holiday in Europe, received a cable that she is to play the lead in "Ramona" as the newcomer Rita Cansino was not considered strong enough to handle the exacting role.

The many admirers of Paul Cavanagh will be delighted to hear that, owing to his success as leading man with Mae West, he has been signed by Sam Goldwyn to play opposite Miriam Hopkins in "Splendor."

Wendy Barrie (Jenkin) has recently finished "The Big Broadcast of 1935" at Paramount. Jack Oakie, Lyda Roberti, Burns and Allen are among the big cast. Wendy now sports a new style of hair-dressing which is decidedly becoming.

Josephine Hutchinson and Warren William (Warners) will play the leads in "A Present From Margate," the film version of the play by Ian Hay and A. E. W. Mason.

Eddie Quillen is allowed to go dramatic in "Mutiny on the Bounty," the M.G.M. production with Clark Gable in the leading role.

George Cukor, the "Ace" director, will now receive from M.G.M. the highest salary paid to any director. It runs into the neighbourhood of $750,000 for a three-year contract.

TO-NIGHT at the STAR

ANOTHER "FRANKENSTEIN" THRILLER AT KING'S

RICARDO CORTEZ AND JOHN BEAL IN "HAT, COAT AND GLOVE"

GEORGE O'BRIEN AGAIN IN HIS ELEMENT IN "THE COWBOY MILLIONAIRE"

By Diane

UNIVERSAL brings another "horror" picture, "The Bride of Frankenstein," which will hold the same sort of appeal as the original "Frankenstein," if one is craving thrills and a gruesome—highly, improbable—plot.

From the beginning the picture will not lose its grip and interest—that is if you like this sort of thing. It opens with a prologue in which "Mary Shelley" (Elsa Lanchester), author of "Frankenstein," tells her husband "Perry Shelley" (Douglas Walton) and "Lord Byron" (Gavin Gordon) that horrified as they were by her first story, she has something even more gruesome in the sequel.

Then we again follow the adventures of the "Monster" (Boris Karloff), who did not perish in the flames, as we had all imagined. Wandering, he meets real kindness from a blind beggar (O.P. Heggie), who shares his food, teaches him to talk and makes him appreciate the beauty of life. Both Heggie and Karloff make these scenes real drama, and again we hold more sympathy than horror for the poor "Monster."

In the hunt that follows he loses his only friend and, taking refuge in a churchyard, meets a mad scientist, "Dr. Pretorius" (Ernest Thesiger), who had once been the tutor of "Frankenstein" (Colin Clive), and by threats insists that he make a "Bride" for the "Monster." This scene is a repetition of what we saw in "Frankenstein," a body pieced from odds and ends collected anywhere, mysterious bubbling tubes, spectacular electric discharges and the usual thunderstorm which brings the desired result.

When the "Bride" (played by Elsa Lanchester) comes to life she is repelled by the Monster, and will have nothing to do with him. In despair the monster seizes a lever and blows up the whole laboratory, thus ending his own life and that of the "Monstress."

Elsa Lanchester (Mrs. Charles Laughton—well known as hostess in famous night-clubs in London, then later in "Henry VIII" and "Naughty Marietta") appears only for two short intervals, but does what she has to do really well.

Colin Clive, O. P. Heggie, Ernest Thesiger, Valerie Hobson, Reginald Barlow, Una O'Connor and many more surround the real star, Karloff. James Whale again directs, supplying a full quota of thrills. (King's)

"The Cowboy Millionaire" An hilarious light-comedy with Western trimmings, in which George O'Brien displays a brand-new talent for delightful nonsense, ably assisted by Edgar Kennedy at his funniest.

Evelyn Bosstock, Maude Allen, and the entire cast help to make this "Western" a joyous evening Grand for the children. (Alhambra)

Three articles, a hat, a coat and a glove are clues to a murder in another of those photographed stage plays in which R.K.O. excels.

The story of "Hat, Coat and Glove" tells of a young lawyer and his wife, who have separated in friendly fashion. She spends most of her time with a young Greenwich Village artist whom she hopes to marry. A cast-off sweetheart of this man's is in his apartment when the lawyer calls to talk over matters. His struggle with the young girl to avert her suicide ends in a pistol shot which kills her, and the young artist is brought to trial, his attorney being the husband of the woman he loves. No more of the story; but there is a rather dramatic finish in the court-room scene.

Ricardo Cortez plays the husband in his usual excellent manner, and John Beal (liked in "Another Language" and "The Little Minister") is finely individual and intense as the artist. Barbara Rob-

Boris Karloff rises to sensational heights in "The Bride Of Frankenstein," which is now showing at the King's Theatre.

IN October the R.K.O. release "Becky Sharp," the much-discussed full-length colour film, starring Miriam Hopkins, with Sir Cedrick Hardwicke and Frances Dee in chief support.

Later in the month we shall see "She" from the story by the late Rider Haggard—the kind of picture that makes a hit with the people of all nationalities.

The film which pleases me will be "The Informer" giving that sterling actor Victor McLaglen the sort of chance that brings in the highest awards.

In November "The Three Musketeers," then a Wheeler and Woolsey comedy hit "The Nitwits," followed by a strong drama starring Katharine Hepburn and the present screen sensation Charles Boyer in "Break of Hearts."

Merian Cooper, who produced the never-to-be-forgotten "King Kong," promises that "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be equally successful.

What is the best news of all is that all the musicals starring our adorable Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire will be shown here almost as soon as they are released in America, starting with "Top-Hat."

"It's A Gift"

Almost a one-man show by comedian W. C. Fields; and if his style appeals to you there is enjoyment in this picture, even if there is an absence of plot. It is really a string of "Gags," and shows Fields in innumerable scrapes, although he tries—so comically—to do things right, all done with that air of patient suffering, that continual protest against fate and the explosive outbursts which the old-timer has so successfully made his own style.

Baby le Roy poses a few times in front of the camera, but one can hardly call it acting. Kathleen Howard, Jean Bouverel, Charles Selton and Julian Madison are among those present. (Queen's)

"Great Expectations"

Dickens-lovers should be pleased with the Universal's job of transferring one of his greatest mystery stories to the screen. Henry Hull's characterisation of the convict whose gratitude for a boy's momentary sympathy becomes a ruling passion is excellent. Scarcely less fine is Phillips Holmes (alas, far too seldom seen in pictures these days) as the boy brought up with great expectations of wealth from a secret benefactor.

The backgrounds are like an old book and the script is splendid. Fine cast in support, and I noticed an old stage favourite of mine from Broadway, Florence Reed, who does well in his, her first film. George Breakston and Anne Howard are splendid in the roles of the children, and Alan Hale is a sterling actor on whom one can always rely.

Jane Wyatt (also from Broadway) Francis L. Sullivan, Jackie Searl, Rafaela Ottiano and many more, with understandable direction by Stuart Walker. (King's) Brisson, Gertrude Michael and Kitty Carlisle.

Followed by "The Sign of the Cross," with Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert, Fredric March and Charles Laughton in one of the famous Cecil B. de Mille absurdities—I frankly say that because he turns a beautiful story into a far-fetched extravaganza.

Again a musical follows, Carl Brisson, singing "Little White Gardenia" in "All the King's Horses," with Mary Ellis equally good in support.

Cecil B. de Mille makes money for Paramount, so what matters it that he re-writes history to please the box-office? See "Cleopatra" with Claudette Colbert, Warren William, Henry Wilcoxon and thousands more, and agree that at least C. de M. can handle crowds.

I still think (with many others) that Mae West has never done a more amusing film than her first starring vehicle "She Done Him Wrong," with Cary Grant.

Sir Samuel Hoare

One of the disadvantages of the rapid dissemination of news is that not only do people know a good deal more about what is going on in their neighbour's country, but that they think they know a great deal more still. Both France and Italy have been told by their newspapers that the British Cabinet is hopelessly divided on the subject of the League; and they have had the Beaverbrook Press to quote from to prove to their uninitiated readers that the popular policy would be to scuttle the ship. There is a good deal more to be known than can be collected from Lord Beaverbrook's young men, who never fail to take the short-sighted view.

The first neglected factor has been the change in the Premier's ship. Thoroughly disgusted at the weakness of the League in dealing with Manchuria, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who had spent most of his life in advocating Internationalism, and in any case somewhat weary after years of controversy, veered right round to the opinion that the League had ceased to be effective for the purpose of preventing war. Undoubtedly, in that particular matter, the effect of waiting for unanimous decisions was that less was done to prevent war than would have been done under the old system. Critics were able to say that the League was a bit of machinery for shelving awkward issues that called for immediate action. Mr. Stanley Baldwin, on the other hand, has always been in favour of maintaining the League and the collective security plan, always provided that opportunity for enquiry and discussion should first be afforded.

The second factor is the transfer of Sir John Simon to the Home Office. No public man is a greater hater of war than Sir John, but in big affairs every course involves some chance of a struggle, and by fixing his attention on the worst possible result of any policy he ended by doing nothing at all. Europe was consequently drifting rapidly towards what he most wanted to avoid, another general war. The other changes of Ministers who, as Mr. Baldwin said, "resigned at my own request," removed those who had consistently "let I dare not wait upon I would."

The Cabinet then arrived at the conclusion that if the gibes of those who sat in the seats of the scornful were to continue to be justified, it would be better to end the farce; but that it would be only fair to make a crucial test of the new system first. The journey of Sir Samuel Hoare to Geneva was arranged so that there should be no more room for the gossip-mongers to fabricate their insinuations of cross purposes and weak compromises. There can be no doubt that the Government has the whole nation behind it. From the somewhat detached point of view of an island, the ordinary Englishman has been shocked to note that the Nazi ambition to seize Austria by force—it may come some day, but if it be by force it would be resisted by force—had all but plunged Central Europe into a general game of "pull Devil pull Baker," to which the only alternative was to substitute law for force, and common for unilateral action. The establishment of the League system as a reality would benefit even Italy much more than anything that she could get out of Ethiopia.

It is impossible for England to avoid charges of grudging to Italy what she has often taken for herself; but Sir Samuel's speech indicated that there was no disposition to take up a non possumus attitude, or to cease from the friendly co-operation which has marked our relations to Italy in the past course of her African adventures. What he proposes is to place the whole of this "Colonial Raw Material" question on a larger basis and see what can be done. Not so many years ago there were vast areas in Africa that were practically vacant, and White Men could start in to plough land which would otherwise lie fallow. The abolition of slave-raiding and the control of epidemics has led to a rapid filling up; and the one thing that the Negro will fight for to the last is his patch of ground, which he wants to cultivate himself. The Italians have already found that in Tripoli and elsewhere. There are eighty millions of Natives in the Continent, including nine in Ethiopia; and if the object be to "give the Italian a chance to breathe," which must mean land for some millions of settlers, the only way will be by turning off men who are already working the land. For the purchase of crops there is already no obstacle. France has granted a half share in the Railway, and sales are in open market. The same argument will be used by Germany in reclaiming her former territories, but the fact is that only a few thousand Germans ever settled therein. German merchants bought more wool for their factories in the markets of Durban, East London, and Port Elizabeth than all the products of all their Colonies, and it is much

PORT STORED IN SNOW

The exceptionally mellow flavour of a glass of port prompted a London man to enquire about its origin.

It had been shipped direct from the vineyards to Newfoundland, where it had been stored for five years in an open shed.

In winter the bottles were completely buried in snow, which apparently has a beneficial effect. One vineyard regularly sends its No. 1 grade port to Newfoundland for several winters.

The discovery that this treatment improves port was made by fishermen from Newfoundland who harvested their cod for wine.

FILM RIGHTS IN WAR

A sidelight on the conduct of modern war, even in ancient kingdoms, is the fact that Haile Selassie's Ministers have granted to an Englishman a concession for the film rights in the coming conflict.

The concessionaire is Captain Peter Simmonds, who served for some years with the King's African Rifles, recently visited Abyssinia, met the Emperor, and obtained a monopoly for taking film cameras into the territory.

He is now negotiating with a leading British producer.

TRAFFIC CASES

Three Europeans Fined

Several residents on the mainland were summoned before Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Kowloon Police Court this morning for breaches of the Traffic Regulations.

Messrs. A. Berruex, of No. 6, Somerset Road, and J. Guerineau were each fined $3 for driving their respective cars without a licence and without lights.

A similar fine was imposed on Mr. Devaux for causing an obstruction with his car near the Majestic Theatre in Saigon Street, while Miss Mary Wong, of No. 789, Nathan Road, was fined $5 for a breach of the Learners' Drivers Licence Regulations.

Mr. Wagstaff, residing at the Y.M.C.A., reports that while driving motor-cycle No. 143 in Castle Peak Road yesterday he knocked down a Chinese female, aged 45, who received slight injuries to her left side and head. She was taken to the Kowloon Hospital.

needless to say that they were welcome as customers. The big German firms were also importers, and had their own "Woermann Line" ships. Nothing prevents German or Italian trade from reviving but their own financial breakdown, and as Sir Samuel said, it is difficult to discuss that in an atmosphere "heavy" with threats of war. With Ethiopia the quarrel is not that she is unwilling to grant concessions, but that she has been unwilling to grant concessions to Italians. And in a country devastated by war concessions will not be worth much.

WHEN GREYHOUNDS RACE

RECORD-BREAKING ON THE ATLANTIC

HOW "BLUE RIBBONS" ARE LOST AND WON

(By Capt. J. G. Bisset)

TRANS-ATLANTIC records, like pie-crusts and some promises, are made to be broken. While giving full marks to the great French liner Normandie for her marvellous first voyage performance, we cherish the hope that our own Queen Mary will eventually wipe the mythical blue ribbon from her.

To those who are unfamiliar with trans-Atlantic crossings, a few words of explanation may be of interest. The course for the ocean passage lies between Bishop Rock Lighthouse and the Ambrose Channel Lightship, a distance of approximately 3,000 miles.

The word approximately is used because ships follow different official tracks at certain seasons of the year. For instance, during summer months, when icebergs drift down on the Labrador Current and ships are diverted to a more southerly track giving a distance of 3,048 miles. During winter, when there are no loose bergs about, a more northerly track is used with a distance of 2,902 miles. Sometimes, owing to extraordinary ice conditions, a ship may be diverted from one track to another during the voyage.

Passing "Bishops"

The iceberg region comprises a huge area in the vicinity of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, and ships proceeding east or west first make for a position south of the Banks, known as the "corner," and then carry on to their destination. East-bound and west-bound tracks are laid roughly 60 miles apart in order to minimise risk of ships meeting in thick weather. Ships bound west leave their Channel port and make for a position five miles south of Bishop Rock. This lighthouse stands on an isolated rock at the south-west extreme of the Scilly Islands, and shows a white double-flash light of 622,000 candle power at a height of 143ft.

In clear weather this is visible from a liner's bridge at a distance of about 27 miles. There is also an explosive fog signal, and on another part of the islands a radio beacon for guiding ships in fog. Bishop Rock is 196 miles from Southampton, 190 from Cherbourg, and 249 miles from Havre.

Exact Time Noted

Passing "Bishops" at full speed, the exact time is noted when the rock is abeam (abreast). This is termed the "departure." Thereafter each day at noon the ship's position is plotted on the chart and the day's run calculated from the previous noon. This information is posted up for the use of passengers, who usually organise a complicated sort of auction sweepstake on the result.

The ship's position is obtained by observations of the heavenly bodies. In fine clear weather the result can be depended on to within a mile, or two. This is known as the "observed position." If the sky is overcast, so that no observations can be taken, the position is estimated from the compass, course, and speed. This is known as "dead reckoning."

Propeller Revolutions

The usual method of estimating speed is by means of the revolutions of the propeller, which are recorded on automatic counters in the engine-room. Before making use of the revolutions, however, it is necessary to know the "pitch" of the propeller. This is supplied to the ship by the builders. "Pitch" is the distance, in feet and inches, that a propeller would travel into a solid block during one revolution. Every kind of screw has a certain pitch, the most familiar example being the corkscrew, for which the number of turns required to penetrate the cork, divided into the length of the cork, give the pitch.

Difference Noted

The chief engineer works out his day's run by multiplying the total revolutions from noon to noon by the pitch. If his figures alone were believed, the engines would arrive in port well ahead of the ship! But as the propellers are turning in a yielding body of water, they lose a good deal of their thrust, and the difference between the chief engineer's run and the actual run obtained by the navigators is termed "slip," and expressed in nautical miles per cent.

Clocks Altered

As the ship proceeds on her voyage the clock is altered each day to allow for the difference in time. New York time is five hours behind London time—though New Yorkers might not all admit this. To make up for this difference on a ship of the speed of the Normandie the clock would be put back 1 1/4 hours each midnight going west, thus making up the five hours in four nights, and giving a 25 1/4-hour day.

Going east the clock is put forward, giving a 22 1/4-hour day. This tends to upset the sleeping hours of some people. Allowance is naturally made for the five hours in the calculation of the average speed.

All miles referred to on board ship are nautical miles, distinct from a land mile. A statute or land mile is a purely arbitrary measure and was defined as 5,280ft by an Act of Parliament passed in the 25th year of the reign of "Good Queen Bess." It bears no relation to any scale in nature.

Nautical Mile

The nautical mile is 6,080ft., and is arrived at by an exact division of the meridional circumference of the earth. Owing to the globe being bulged and flattened, the nautical mile varies slightly in length, being 6,046ft. at the equator and 6,108ft. at the poles, so a mean of 6,080ft. is adopted and this is correct in latitudes 48deg. north or south. As an easy reminder, seven nautical miles are equal to 8.06 statute miles.

The nautical mile, a unit of length, must not be confounded with the knot, a unit of speed. To say that a ship is doing 30 knots, means that she is covering 30 nautical miles per hour. To use the expression "30 knots per hour" is incorrect and immediately brands the speaker as a very amateur navigator.

Gulf Stream

The Gulf Stream is a factor that enters into trans-Atlantic records for about 1,000 miles of the passage before arrival at New York. This stream runs in an easterly direction at the variable rate of 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 knots. Going west the ship has to steam against it and is liable to have one or two days of poor runs. Going east, it helps her along.

POSSESSION OF A DAGGER

Unemployed Tailor Sentenced

WORDS EXCHANGED WITH FATHER-IN-LAW

Tsoi Sai-ling, aged 27, an unemployed tailor, was this morning sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy when charged with the unlawful possession of a dagger.

Detective-sergeant Kinnear, said that defendant arrived by the morning train on Wednesday from Canton. He went to the shop of his father-in-law, a blacksmith, in Chung On Lane. There he produced the dagger and said that he had been looking for him for some time.

Ran Out Of Shop

Words were exchanged, and when a foki intervened the defendant threw the dagger on the counter and ran out of the shop. He was chased into Queen's Road Central by the foki and was arrested by a Shaantung constable.

It appeared that the defendant's wife had left him in the country and had come to Hong Kong. He had come down to see if his father-in-law knew of her whereabouts, but he did not. Defendant had brought the dagger from Canton and had hidden it in his socks.

To-day's Short Story.

Dictator And Double

By Sidney Denham

THE world was divided in its opinion of the Dictator. One half regarded him as a menace to civilisation, the other, as little short of a superman.

The world, on the other hand, held no opinions at all about Nicholas Redevsky, for the simple reason that it had never heard of him. Only five men knew of the existence of Redevsky, and they were all trusted followers of the Dictator.

When he was not working Redevsky lived, hidden from all eyes, in a small room high up in the great palace. An electric service-lift carried up his meals from the great kitchens. Half-an-hour later the lift returned with the empty dishes. That was all the hundred-odd servants at the palace knew of Redevsky. Those who troubled to inquire came to understand that he was a political prisoner.

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "We Were Sitting By The River," by G. H. C. Askew.

They shrugged their shoulders. The Dictator had made many prisoners. It was not their business... they would not have been surprised if one day a coffin came down from that little room, to be buried in some corner of the palace gardens.

Redevsky's incarceration was voluntary, although it is probable that the moment he showed signs of wishing to be free, the coffin would have come down the stairs.

But there was no reason why he should escape. Redevsky, who had grown up in an atmosphere of starvation and dirt, now fed on fine food in unlimited quantities, in a room which, though it was a prison, was comfortably furnished. Redevsky, whose common state had been one of complete poverty, was paid a handsome salary.

True, he could not spend it, but it gave him satisfaction to think of the rising pile of notes he kept under his mattress. Sometimes he would take some of his money to play cards with one of the Dictator's men, but not often, for they were busy men, who visited him as a rule only when they required his services.

And these services? A ride in an open motorcar, perhaps two or three times a week through wildly cheering crowds; an appearance occasionally at a reception, when he must stand on a platform and shake hands a thousand times, speaking but a dozen words during the afternoon. It would not have been work to most men, but to Redevsky all things but eating, drinking and card-playing were work.

True, he was well paid, not so much because of the work he did as because no other man could do it. No other man in the world so closely resembled the Dictator. The height, the build, the colouring, the features, were identical. Some freak of Nature had ordained that the son of a soldier born in Lyons and the son of a peasant born two years later a thousand miles away should be identical in appearance.

The son of the soldier grew up to become a Dictator of a nation of some 50,000,000 souls. The son of the peasant cursed his way, an unwilling conscript, through the War, to become a unit in the jetsam thrown up by it, untrained to any work without ability, or any ambition beyond securing his next meal and a night's lodging.

Colonel Verte, the Dictator's right-hand man, had seen Redevsky begging in the streets of Paris. Redevsky had begged in the streets of many towns of many countries, with varying success. Sometimes it was a blow, sometimes a coin. He had anticipated the blow rather than the coin from Colonel Verte. When the Colonel, suddenly inspired with a solution for his greatest problem, had beckoned to him, pushed him into his great car and driven him to the Palace, he feared worse.

The Dictator had looked at Redevsky and smiled: "I don't like it, Verte," he had said, "but I suppose it's necessary. An assassin's bullet in my body might plunge my country again into the horrors of civil war from which, by the help of God, I was able to rescue it... a bullet in this poor fellow's body."

"Would have no political consequences whatever," said Colonel Verte stiffly.

"All right. I leave it to you. He must be well paid."

Verte had instructed Redevsky in his work. The instruction had been prolonged. A beggar may resemble a Dictator in appearance never so closely, but to deceive 10,000 enthusiastic followers—or a single assassin—he must have the same gestures, the same jutting-out of the chin, the same expression of supreme confidence, the same glint of the eyes.

Redevsky acquired the gestures, the tilt of the chin, even the look of confidence. He never managed to get the glint in his eyes, but Colonel Verte decided to risk that. (Continued on Page 11.)

COLONY'S BUDGET FOR 1936

Making Provision For Uncertain Future

SALARY CUTS AND HIGHER TAXATION PROBABLE

A realisation of the present depression in the Colony's trade and a cautious outlook for the future formed the keynote of the Budget speech, lasting some 40 minutes, delivered at yesterday's meeting of the Legislative Council by the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, Acting Colonial Secretary.

The position, the Hon. Mr. Smith stated, had not improved during the past twelve months and there were few, if any, signs of recovery for the future. Despite revised reduced estimates for next year, a revenue deficit of one and a half million dollars was anticipated.

NOTE OF WARNING

It was well, he said, that a note of warning should be given now, that increased taxation and a temporary levy on all Government salaries might be necessary if the state of the public finances in 1936 should show serious deterioration. The Secretary of State had already given his sanction to action on these lines.

A balanced Budget would be achieved, however, if the dollar rate averaged about 1/10¹/₂d. during 1936. The Government had authority from the Secretary of State to use half a million dollars from the 1925 Trade Loan fund, but it proposed leaving this for a real "rainy day."

Economy in all departments of the Government, staff retrenchments and a policy of abolishing vacancies when they made no serious defect in the efficiency of the work concerned, would be pursued in effecting very considerable curtailments of Government expenditure.

No large new Public Works undertakings he said, would be initiated and officers engaged on the present schemes would not go on to the permanent staff, as usual, at their completion but would remain on the temporary staff until future needs were more clearly known.

Meanwhile the new Lepers Home and the Government House and City Development Scheme would be left in abeyance until better times.

The speech also referred to the hope that Hong Kong would be linked with Imperial Air Services before the end of the year and that a station to provide meteorological reports on flying conditions would be established.

Greek Plebiscite To Be Begun On October 27

Athens, To-day.—The plebiscite on the question of the restoration of the monarchy has been fixed for October 27.

Though the announcement of a definite date has somewhat cleared the atmosphere among the population and the army, it is evident that the differences between M. Tsakalof and the War Minister, General Kondylis, have not yet been settled. The leaders of the People's Party demand the reinstatement of General Panayotakis as

Meanwhile the new Lepers Home and the Government House and City Development Scheme would be left in abeyance until better times.

The speech also referred to the hope that Hong Kong would be linked with Imperial Air Services before the end of the year and that a station to provide meteorological reports on flying conditions would be established.

CANTON TO PEIPING AIR ROUTE

Service Resumption
Next May

GENERALISSIMO HAS OTHER PLANS

(From Our Own Correspondent)
Canton, To-day.

The air service between Canton and Peiping, via Hankow, which has been suspended since July, will be resumed next May, when two fast Junker planes will span the distance between the two cities in one day instead of two, the Canton Daily Sun stated yesterday morning.

This statement is based on an interview granted by Mr. Fritz (Horn, technical manager of the Eurasia Corporation, who flew to Shanghai on Wednesday morning in the giant Junker plane and reached there in the afternoon.

From other sources it is learned that General Chiang Kai-shek, military chief of the Nanking Government, is most anxious to inaugurate the Shanghai-Chengtu-Sian air service rather than to resume immediately the Canton-Peiping line. General Chiang wants to develop the North-west provinces, and Sian is an important point in far-away Kansu.

Chengtu and Sian are separated by over 500 miles. The absence of railways and highways in those mountainous regions calls for the development of aerial transportation. The North-west provinces are far inland and quite beyond the reach of naval or aerial bombardment in the event of war, in the opinion of General Chiang.

The Church at the Benedictine Monastery, Downside Abbey, near Bath, which has taken 53 years to build and the foundation stone of which was laid in 1874 by Cardinal Manning, was consecrated yesterday by Cardinal Serelli, Prince Primate of Hungary, who was specially commissioned by His Holiness the Pope.

Monsieur Hensley, Archbishop of Westminster, and Cardinal McRory, Primate of Ireland, also took an important part in the ceremonies, which lasted seven hours.—British Wireless Service.

GREAT EXHIBITION IN LONDON

Shipping, Engineering

London, To-day.

There are more than 350 exhibitors at the Shipping, Engineering and Machinery Exhibition which opened yesterday at Olympia.

The exhibits vary in size from machines weighing 25 tons down to nuts and bolts and include a full-sized ship's boiler and a folding press which will bend sheet metal under a pressure of 75 tons.

Excavations to make room for its one special exhibit have cost one firm $500. A prominent place in the hall is taken by a scale model of the Cunard White Star Queen Mary, 22 feet long and weighing 3 tons.—British Wireless Service.

FIRE OUTBREAK AT SOOKUNPOO

Military Football
Stand Damaged

A fire which broke out shortly before 10 o'clock last night in the covered stand at the military football ground, Sookunpoo, did damage to the extent of about $300, about 50 yards of the roofing being destroyed and the seating damaged.

The outbreak is thought to have been caused by a Chinese fireworks balloon, bursting above the shed.

Two applications from the Wanchai Fire Station, under Station Officer J. W. Woodard, were quickly on the scene and extinguished the fire in a few minutes.

FIRST ROUND OF AMERICAN CUP SERIES

Meadowbrook, To-day.

In the First Round of the American Polo Championship, which was played here yesterday, the Hurricanes beat the British team from the Hurlingham Club by 9 goals to 8, while Aurora, the holders, beat Old-westbury by 11 goals to 9.

The winners will meet in the Semi-final Round.

The Hurlingham team played the Americans at their own game and rode hard, working excellently together. They lost a terrific battle in which the result was in doubt till the very end.

At the end of the fourth chukker, the British team led by 7 goals to 5, but the Hurricanes drew level at 7-7.

THE SCORERS

At the end of the fifth chukker, the scorers were Sanford 5, Gerry 3 and Strawbridge for the Hurricanes, and Sanger 5, Tyrrell-Martin 2 and Guinness for Hurlingham.

Walford, the Hurlingham No. 1, came very close to scoring on several occasions. Rathborne made up the fourth member of the Hurricanes' team.—Renter.

The Hurricanes were holders of the American Polo Championship in 1926, 1929 and 1930, while Aurora first won the title in 1933.

The Hurlingham team, which is comprised of some of the best English players, has been acknowledged as the finest polo team ever to visit the United States.

TWO CHILDREN IN PLANE MISHAP

Forced Landing At Ramsgate

ENGINE FAILS WHILE OVER THE SEA

London.

Two children were among five holiday-makers who escaped with a shaking recently when an aeroplane in which they were having a pleasure flight from Ramsgate airport made a forced landing in a neighbouring playing field.

The engine failed in mid-air through a feed pipe bursting while the plane was over the sea, and the pilot, Flight Lt. C. E. Eckersley-Maslin, turning towards the shore, had to select a place for a safe landing. Though temporarily blinded by oil, he talked calmly to his passengers to reassure them.

Smoke From Machine

Holiday-makers watching the flight from the ground saw smoke coming from the machine, and feared that it had caught fire. The smoke was caused by oil coming in contact with the hot exhaust pipe.

Though the pilot could see out of only one side window, he brought the machine down between two pavilions. Only the under-carriage and a wing tip were damaged.

"I had to land into a half wind, with a run of only 150 yards," Mr. Eckersley-Maslin said afterwards. "The plane tipped up on to its nose."

Eye Full Of Oil

"When the oil pipe burst the front windows of the plane were sprayed with oil, and I got an eye full. The passengers were not alarmed; indeed, they seemed to enjoy the thrill."

About 50 people were waiting at the airport for flights, which they made as soon as another machine was obtained.

Sergeant Wins Claim

COUNTERCLAIM DISMISSED

Judgment for plaintiff, with costs, was given by Mr. Justice E. E. Lindell at the Summary Court yesterday afternoon in the case in which Sergeant R. H. Eldridge, of the 2nd Battalion The East Lancashire Regiment, claimed $100 from Mr. R. S. Lowe, the proprietor of the Peninsula Motor Hospital, otherwise known as S. Wing and Co., of 611 Nathan Road, Mongkok.

The claim was in respect of money paid by plaintiff to defendant as deposit for the purchase of an Austin Seven.

A counter-claim for $180 by defendant as balance of the purchase price of the car and, alternatively, $100 damages for breach of contract, was dismissed.

Mr. C. E. Lowe appeared for the plaintiff, and the defendant was represented by Mr. C. E. R. Sanderson.

LAVAL'S SPEECH TO-DAY

Paris: The three fundamental points of the important speech M. Laval will deliver before the League Assembly to-day, according to "Suerwein" in the Paris Soir, are:

(1) The exploration of every remaining avenue for conciliation.

(2) The limitation and rapid cessation of hostilities, if they do break out after all.

(3) That Italy's help cannot be dispensed with in the policy of European stabilisation.

It is said that M. Laval, in accordance with the first point in the well-known political correspondent's forecast, will make a personal appeal to Signor Mussolini before he delivers the speech.

ITALIAN PRESS COMMENT

Rome: M. Laval has now reached the point where he must decide definitely for England's or Italy's friendship, write the Geneva correspondents of the leading papers, stressing that the British delegation is making "incredible efforts" to win the French Premier to their side, there not being a single aspect of European politics which has not been thrown into the scales.

Warning France against these "manoeuvres," the papers point out that there is nothing in Sir Samuel Hoare's speech which offers any guarantee that England is prepared to increase her obligations on the Continent.

"England plays a double game and only acts when it is to her own advantage," asserts the Giornale d'Italia. "She wants to strike a blow at Italy, which she regards as the new rising Power about to put the British Empire in the shade."

BRIEF COMMUNIQUE

Geneva: "After an exchange of views the committee of five gave its sub-committee general instructions for the elaboration of the draft of the proposals which will eventually be submitted to the two Governments concerned as the basis for the peaceful settlement of the dispute." This brief communique issued by the League Secretariat after yesterday evening's session of the committee refers, it is understood in League circles, to the suggestion that a treaty similar to that concluded between England and Iraq should be signed between Italy and Abyssinia.

This would mean that Italy would receive the right to station garrisons in Abyssinia and control the police. While M. Laval will discuss the proposition with Baron Aloisi in the next few days, the committee of jurists will draw up the proposal in legal form. Should the private negotiations between the statesmen not have led to a satisfactory result by the end of the week, the juristic committee, it is stated, will hand in its draft to the League Council.

POPE APPEAL RUMOUR

The League Assembly held no session yesterday afternoon. A persistent rumour was current here yesterday evening that the United States Senator for Idaho, Mr. Pope, who is still staying at Geneva, sent a telegram to the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell

Hall, yesterday, urging him to take the initiative in calling a conference of the Kellogg Pact signatories for the purpose of deciding to put those countries, which break their obligations under the pact by beginning war, outside the pale of the law.

RICKETT AT BUDAPEST

Budapest: Mr. Rickett arrived here by air from Athens yesterday. "Acknowledgement by Italy of the concession agreement which I have in my pocket," said Mr. Rickett, replying to pressmen, "is merely a matter of respect for the sanctity of agreements."

He had no intention of selling the concession to Italy, said Mr. Rickett, but he revealed nothing of his further plans, except that he is leaving for London to-day.—Trans-Ocean Service.

ILLEGAL FISHING CHARGE

Two Clergymen
Arrested

London.

Two Stirlingshire clergymen, the Rev. J. J. S. Thomson and the Rev. David S. Merrow, were concerned in a charge of illegal fishing called at Paris last month.

It was alleged that, with two Larbert men, Mr. David Forbes Jones and Mr. James Bulloch, they dragged for and caught a salmon at the Falls of Garry, Stirlingshire, "by means of two rods and lines, to which were fixed casts having artificial fly-hooks and lead sinkers attached."

A plea of not guilty was tendered, and the trial was fixed for a date in September.

CHANNEL BUOYS

WHAT would modern navigation do without the channel buoys—those floating markers that keep ships off the shoals? In a very real sense, the advertisements in this paper are channel buoys, placed for your protection—for the safeguarding of the family expenditures.

These advertisements are the signed statements of reputable firms who seek your patronage on the single basis of giving value for every dollar spent. They are honest statements, the only kind an advertiser can use and remain an advertiser.

People who get the most for their dollar in the market-places are those who keep an eye on the channel buoys. Day by day, they follow the advertisements to learn what and where to buy to the best advantage. Make this a habit. Study the advertisements, in the interest of absewder buying.

The advertisers in this paper have charted the channels of buying for you. Keep to the course.

Dictator And Double

At first he was so glad to have regular meals of well-cooked food, unlimited cigarettes, good wines, that Redevsky forgot the risks attached to his peculiar duties. Later, when he became so accustomed to the good living that he would sometimes send a meal rocketing down the lift untouched, with the complaint that it was not fit for a dog, he laughed at the risks; not the foolhardy laugh of the brave man or the arrogant laugh of the coward at heart, but the laugh of a man who had seen life and death and knew that of the two death was the less to be feared.

Men did not die by assassins' bullets or anarchists' bombs, Redevsky thought. More likely they tripped at the top of the stairs and broke their necks at the bottom, or they ate shellfish that was not fresh . . . and a Dictator was as likely to do that as his double.

For the most part, Redevsky did not think at all; chiefly because, well-fed and comfortably bedded, he had no need to do so. The time came when he began to complain about the wearisome business of being dressed in the Dictator's uniform. He was acquiring the temperament of the artist who knew that he had become indispensable.

Redevsky had pushed the dishes into the electric lift, given the signal for it to be lowered, and flung himself into a chair with a contented sigh to smoke a cigarette. He was satisfied, not only with the excellent meal he had finished, but with life in general.

The door opened. Colonel Verte walked stiffly into the room, and then frowned. Redevsky had never learned to stand and salute before his superiors . . . and yet it was difficult to insist upon it, since for hours at a time Redevsky was the Dictator, and Verte had to salute!

"You will get dressed as rapidly as possible," said the Colonel shortly. "The Marshal's uniform."

"Eh? This wasn't fixed!" Redevsky was sullen.

"It is an emergency," replied Colonel Verte, "although that makes no difference. You are paid to serve the Dictator," he added, with a hint of scorn.

A thousand men, like myself, would have considered it an honour to be allowed to take the Dictator's place when danger threatened. He had tried to rouse Redevsky's patriotism on previous occasions and failed, for the simple reason that Redevsky had no patriotism. To be a patriot, you need a country—Redevsky had no country.

"But I must ride in the train, so that the people shall not think the Dictator is afraid."

"Silence! The Dictator is afraid of nothing . . . it is I who persuaded him not to travel. His death would be a disaster not only for the country, but also for Europe. He goes by plane only because he has already given his life to the Cause."

"All right, all right!" Redevsky got up slowly. "I sit in the train and look pretty, eh?"

"You will be required to show yourself at the window when we pass through stations."

"We?"

"Certainly! I accompany you." The Colonel was looking with a critical eye at the uniform which Redevsky had taken from a cupboard.

"They might shoot you, too, Colonel," smiled Redevsky.

"It does not matter. You and we do not count. The Dictator must be preserved at whatever cost. It is a duty we owe not only our country, but to the world."

Redevsky did not reply. He had heard these tirades before and they left him cold . . . it was like a man telling a labourer that to be harder was a duty he owed to his employer.

"The Dictator goes by plane," he said presently, as he struggled with the tight, braided collar. The Colonel nodded. "Not even a pilot knows the identity of his passenger," he remarked. "Gustav is the best pilot we have, but cannot take risks. If he does know, the Colonel nudged his shoulders significantly. "If you are ready, I will see whether the passage is clear to the Dictator's room."

Redevsky entered the Dictator's room, a beggar who had somehow got into uniform. He left it as the Dictator, his chin jutting aggressively, his head held high. The streets, as always, were lined with people. Redevsky knew that among the crowds was a thick sprinkling of detectives; they had told him that to give him confidence. He knew that windows in strategic positions from which revolvers might be fired were being watched, that any suspicious character who tried to struggle forward to the front of the crowd where the soldiers in uniform stood in rows would receive short shift.

The train moved out of the station slowly. Redevsky, standing at the window, mechanically acknowledged the salutes of the populace. Here he was safe enough. The police loved the Dictator and would take no chances—it was the time after the train crossed the frontier that was to be feared.

Redevsky, in danger of losing his life, began to think that it was worth keeping. Colonel Verte, sitting beside him, was giving instructions for the change-over, the time when the private passenger on the aeroplane would become the Dictator again, and the gorgeously uniformed Dictator on the train would become a nonentity.

At last the train passed the frontier station. Redevsky drew back a little from the window. His head, framed in the pane, made too easy a target—a good marksman could even pick him off while the train was moving slowly up a gradient: the beflagged and decorated coach betrayed his position immediately.

Colonel Verte motioned him back to the window. "The people outside are waiting by the track in the villages to see you," he said. "It is a question of prestige." Redevsky moved a couple of inches, but was still well back from the window. It was not that he was a coward, though no man liked being shot in cold blood. It was simply that he did not want to lose the only job he had ever had, a good job.

"Show yourself at the window," said the Colonel with a voice that was none the less firm because it was lowered to prevent its reaching the guard at the door in the corridor. "That is what you are paid for."

"To be shot..." began Redevsky. "If the worst happens, you will only be wounded." "I don't like wounds in the side of my head," retorted Redevsky. He was thinking, "If I am shot dead, they will only give it out that I am scratched, and the Dictator will appear at the other end with a bandage about his head."

Suddenly he sat bolt upright. The train bumped over the track, passed villages where children stood on the level-crossing gates and cheered at the sight of the decorated carriage. Redevsky lapsed into silence, and then his head nodded over the papers that Colonel Verte had laid out before

"Sit up!" exclaimed the Colonel. The train was slowing down as it rattled over points. "The last stop before the end. There will be people on the platform."

Redevsky played his part. The train stopped. The curious people, anxious to see what manner of man was coming to negotiate a treaty with them, stared from behind a line of guards.

"Get me a newspaper," muttered Redevsky, his eyes searching the platform that he might duck below the window at the first sign of the rumoured shots. "I shall be asleep if I don't have something to do."

Colonel Verte called to a guard. The newspaper was brought as the train steamed out of the station to half-hearted cheers. Colonel Verte waited until they were clear of the town, then handed the paper to Redevsky. He opened it and began to read with the concentration of one to whom reading is still an effort.

Suddenly he sat bolt upright. Colonel Verte, watching him with alert eyes, picked up the paper he had dropped. "What is it?" he asked. Redevsky, his face pallid, pointed to a headline in the stop press. "Aeroplane accident," Colonel Verte read. "An aeroplane got into difficulties and crashed just after crossing the frontier this afternoon. A wing was seen to fall off and the plane burst into flames. All the occupants were killed. So far only the body of the pilot, whose name is given as Leski, has been identified."

The paper fell from the Colonel's nerveless hands to the carriage floor. And then Redevsky, standing up and, regardless of danger, showing his full body at the window, began to curse. He cursed fluently in the three languages which he knew best, until the Colonel, his face still that of a man in a dream, pulled him down on to the seat.

"This is no time for blasphemy," he muttered. "It means war. The loss of the Dictator is irreparable." He buried his head in his hands. "I can understand your cursing a God that takes a great man and leaves us who are of no consequence."

"To hell with the loss of the Dictator!" Redevsky began a fresh string of oaths. "It's for the loss of a comfortable job that I am cursing."

He picked up the little bag in which were his ordinary clothes and darted through the door marked "Toilet."

What delightful news the popular Manager, Jackie Noronha, of the Queen's has handed to cinema "fans" this week. He has signed to R.E.O. Paramount, and Warners First National, so that means we shall see all their best and brightest shows in Hong Kong.

Can you beat this by much? "Gold-diggers of 1935"—"Crusades"—another of the Cecil B. de Mille box-office gold-mines—"Becky Sharp," the first full-length colour picture. "Black Fury" (Paul Muni). "In Caliente" (Dolores del Rio and Pat O'Brien), then Cary Grant in "Wings In The Dark." All must go on your list.—(Queen's) DIANE

DOCTOR FEARS OPERATION

Commits Suicide As Result

Prague. Dr. Thakires, of Paris, committed suicide at Karlovyvary by cutting his abdomen with a razor, according to the Ceske Slovo. The 70-year old physician was thought to have killed himself because he feared an operation which he was to have undergone.

At the time of the discovery, 280,000 Czechoslovakian crowns were found on his body.

LEAGUE LEADERS' SENSATIONAL DEFEAT BY DOCKS

The latter player is a valuable asset to the rink and is still improving.

On the other two rinks, Jack was as clever as his master. J. Shepherd scored a one-shot victory over Cavanagh, and C. S. Rosset managed to pull through when opposed to W. E. Hollands by two shots.

End of Season Feeling

There was the usual end of the season feeling about most of last Saturday's matches, and so it was with the very pleasant contest between the Kowloon Bowling Green and the Indian R.C. at Austin Road. The home team were outwitting their visitors at most of the heads, and but for one very deadly driving on the part of A. R. Dallah, and in a lesser degree, A. Wahab, the Indians would have found themselves minus a larger number of shots at the end of the 21 heads. L. Guy, who was drawn against A. R. Dallah, found his best laid schemes going awry, through his opposite number disturbing the lie time and again, but occasionally he would fail and at those heads, the Bowling Green four collected a sufficient number of shots to succeed ultimately by the very small margin of one shot, 20-19.

W. F. Kerr and Han Fook-sing are the first and second reserves. Both the latter will be given an opportunity of playing before the Interport clash, as the Colony side meets the Rest of the Colony on Friday night, when Lawrence and L. Roza-Pereira, the pivot and leader, respectively, will not be playing.

Then again on Saturday night, in case Lawrence is not fit for the water-polo, Gittins will probably come forward into the pivot position and Kerr will play at left-back.

Yesterday's Trial

A final Interport trial game of water-polo was held at the Victoria Recreation Club pool yesterday evening when Colours and Whites shared four goals, the outstanding features of the game being the brilliant display of Lionel Roza-Pereira and the equally brilliant performance of Wong Suen-man in defence.

Individually, very few men shone. Chan Shek-pui, the Whites' custodian, excelling between the sticks, and practically walking into the Interport team on his display.

Chan Unimpressive

Chan Chan-hing, the Colony 50 Yards champion, gave a fair display at right-back although he was inclined to dilly-dally with the ball when a judicious pass forward might have resulted in a goal.

Gittins was very good and had Shek Kam-pui, his opposite number helpless on the occasions they clashed. Kerr, at back, played a very strenuous game, his best asset being his spoiling, although he would do well to dispense with his efforts to clear on the back-hand. Dr. Laing, on the left-wing for Colours, was not very effective, although he opened the scoring with a volley.

Wong Suen-man stood head and shoulders above anyone else in defence, his timely interceptions and great sense of anticipation often foiling the opposing forwards. His exclusion from the Rest of the Colony team is, to say the least, sensational.

INTRA-CLUB BOWLS

Third Round—D. B. Bone beat C. H. Summers.
Pairs Championship (Second Round)—S. Pollock and J. C. Chalmers beat F. Patterson and N. Drummond; A. W. Norris and J. C. Polson beat E. Wright and T. F. Stainton.

H.K. RIFLE ASSOC.

The Interport

The Interport Shoot will be held in November or December. The Council has approached both the Singapore and Shanghai Rifle Associations, suggesting that the conditions of shooting should be as follows:—

Distances:—300, 500, 600 yards (aggregate).

Number of shots:—One sighting shot and ten to count at each distance.

Dress:—Any.

Rifle:—S.R. (b).

Eligibility of members of team, ten of whom will fire: best eight aggregate scores to count.—Must be British Subjects, resident or stationed in the Ports concerned.

Note. As regards personnel of the Royal Naval, the words "resident" or "stationed in" shall be deemed to refer to Officers and Ratings holding appointments in Dockyards, Shore Establishments, and Harbour Ships.

Range Practices

Arrangements have now been completed whereby the Association will have the use of (a) the Army Ranges at Kowloon City on Wednesday afternoons, shooting to commence at 2 p.m., and (b) the Naval Range at Stonecutters Island on Saturday or Sunday afternoons, shooting also starting at 2 p.m.

The first shoot on the Army Ranges at Kowloon City will be held at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, September 18, and subsequent shoots will be held at that time, each Wednesday afternoon.

The first practice at Stonecutters will take place on Saturday afternoon, September 21.

Classification Of Shooting

As two of the principal objects of the Association are to provide teams to represent the Colony in all Interport and Inter-Colonial events, whether these are held in Hong Kong or at Bisley, or elsewhere, and to encourage rifle shooting within the Army, in accordance with the wishes expressed by the Army Council in their Instruction No. 203 of 1933, those members who shoot with the S.M.L.E. rifle, fitted with aperture sight and sling, or with the "P. 1914" rifle, fitted with similar aids, will always receive special help and attention.

At the same time, the importance of practice with the rifle "as issued," i.e. with open sights and without the use of the sling and (b) those who wish to fire with the S.M.L.E. rifle, with aperture sight and sling, or with the "P. 1914" rifle with similar aids.

Only those who shoot in the latter class will be eligible for consideration as regards possible inclusion in the teams to represent the Colony in the inter-colonial events held at the Bisley meetings at home, as well as the competitions held annually in this Colony, for the "Donegal Badge," "N.R.A. Silver Ideal," "N.R.A. Postal Match," and the Interport competition between Singapore, Shanghai and Hong Kong.

Spoon Shoots

Any individual full member may compete for the Association's silver spoons, which will be awarded, at the rate of one spoon per 20 competitors, to those who make the highest aggregate scores at each of the practice shoots held by the Association. The entrance fee will be 10 cents per member. Affiliated members are not eligible to take part in these Spoon Shoots.

Until further notice all practices will be carried out under the "King's" 1st Stage conditions, that is, one sighting shot and seven to count, at 200, 500 and 600 yards.

KOWLOON DOCKS

Club Championship (Third Round). G. Cooper beat F. Cullen. Handicap Singles (Third Round). A. Pearson (acc.) beat S. Gray (4-1); V. Ramsay (5-5) beat J. Crookdale (4-2).

KOWLOON C.C.

G. Lee beat N. J. Bebbington in the Second Round of the Singles Handicap.

RECREIO

H. A. Alves has now reached the final of the Club Championship and will play either E. L. Barros or L. A. Gutierrez for the title.

KOWLOON DOCKS SHOULD DEFEAT COX'S RD. TEAM

Quite a number of competent bowlers believe that the Kowloon Dock 12 will follow the example of the Civil Service team of a fortnight ago and prove just too strong for the Cox's Road combination.

Close Encounter

In the match between the Civil Service and the Bowling Green, I hesitate to forecast the winner. I have a feeling that the Kowloon men will pull it off, but I cannot forget the great form shown by the Civil Servants against the K.C.C. and in particular, the clever bowling by the rinks skipped by F. Jones and J. Hollidge. As I said last Friday, if the rink at present supervised by A. W. Grimmer comes up to expectations, then the visitors to-morrow should leave Happy Valley minus two points; but the present composition of Grimmer's quartette does not warrant too much confidence being placed upon its success, and I will not be surprised if the Bowling Green adds to its other successes at their expense.

As stated elsewhere in these columns I expect Craigengower "A" to defeat the Indian R.C. and thus retain for another year the League Championship of the Colony.

The Recreio entertain Craigengower "B" in the last match of the season, and should finish as they started, with a comfortable win. Taking everything into consideration, the Portuguese have had a very successful season, and with a little luck may be placed as runners-up in the race for honours.

Junior Champions

Congratulations to the Kowloon Bowling Green Club juniors on their brilliant achievement in winning the League Championship. This is the second time they have placed that Club's name on the record's board. They were given a shock last week when, much to the chagrin of the H. K. Electric, they managed to win by a single shot.

The Kowloon Cricket Club, after a long series of successes met their Waterloo last week, and I am afraid they may have to bow the knee again to-morrow when they meet Taihook.

The H. K. Electric, after their great showing against the champions, should be able to dispose of the Civil Service. The Yacht Club meet the Recreio and here we should witness a win for the visiting team.

WALLACE DOES WELL IN LOCAL BOWLS

He won the Singles Championship in 1922, beating W. G. Gerrard in the Final on the Kowloon B.C.C. green by 21 shots to 11.

Later he won the Pairs Championship with J. Russell, shortly before this championship was abandoned, and he has skipped a rink to victory in the Spey Royal competition twice.

Three Interport "Caps"

Wallace has received Interport recognition three times, twice in Hong Kong and once in Shanghai. The first time was in 1922 when he skipped a rink in Shanghai and was defeated. The following year he played again, this time on home soil—and won. His last Interport was in 1927, also in Hong Kong.

He is a past champion of the Taihook R.C. and has won numerous handicap events. He now admits that he prefers golf to bowls, although he is still seen on the greens occasionally—"Skip."

MID-AUTUMN FESTIVAL IN KWANGTUNG CELEBRATIONS IN CANTON

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, To-day.
Under the charm of the romantic moon, Canton last night celebrated the Mid-Autumn Festival in traditional enthusiasm and gaiety. The streets were full of people, and the buses were crowded with passengers.

Fashionable women were much in evidence along Wing Hon Road, the Bund and Sup Pat Po. As the night was hot, their sleeves were short. Few wore stockings, and the magic spell of the moon had the effect of relaxing the stern ruling against modern and fashionable garbs for milady.

Cold drink parlours, roof gardens and tea-rooms were crowded to capacity last night. Many people went to the watery resort at Western Outskirts, and the flower boats there did good business. Even rickshaw coolies were able to get more fares than on ordinary nights.

Cinema theatres were full to the limit, while admission prices were reduced to half of the usual rate.

As the moon climbed to the top of the zenith, pious women fired crackers and made offerings to the gods, in the hope of an early marriage or prosperity to their husbands and children.

ITALY MAY MODIFY

Rome: It is understood that from to-day the Italian press will cease to attack Great Britain, as the result of orders from higher quarters.

Geneva: With a view to preventing war in Abyssinia Senator Pope (Idaho) has cabled Mr. Cordell Hull, suggesting the convening of an international conference of the signatories of the Kellogg Pact.

Although the Kellogg Pact does not provide machinery for the enforcement of its obligations, Mr. Pope expresses the opinion that it would be a simple matter to use the pact as a basis to outlaw a Government resorting to aggressive war.

Marseilles: A detachment of French colonial troops, numbering 170, has sailed for Djibouti.

Rome: A Royal decree announces that the naval squadron in East Africa will be placed under the command of General Debono, High Commissioner of East Africa, in the event of "special contingencies of a colonial character or hostilities at any time." General Debono's headquarters are Asmara. The squadron will operate in the Red Sea, the Gulf of Aden and the Indian Ocean.—Reuter.

HUEY LONG LAID TO REST

Wealth supporter, praised "this mental wizard, political genius and loving husband." There were aeroplanes overhead and the police restrained a hysterical man, screaming: "I want to throw myself in Huey's grave."

After the funeral Governor Allen issued a statement saying that "Huey Long's principles would endure while courage and decency survive." He added that an adequate tomb would be built by public subscription.—Reuter.

FRENCH NIGERIAN GOLD DEPOSITS

Size Equal To Those Of South Africa

—CHINA MAIL—SPECIAL

Paris, To-day.
The gold deposits on the Upper Niger, in French Nigeria, are assumed to be at least as extensive as those of South Africa, it is declared in connection with an expedition setting out shortly to make an exhaustive survey.

The exploitation of the gold, if the assumptions prove correct, will be carried out systematically, with the assistance of the French Colonial Ministry—Trans-Ocean Service.

AMERICAN ATTITUDE OUTLINED

hostilities, that they weigh most solitiously the declaration and pledge given by the Pact of Paris, which pledge was entered into by all the signatories for the purpose of safeguarding peace and sparing the world the incalculable losses and human suffering that inevitably attend and follow in the wake of the path of war.—Reuter.

NEW YORK: Commenting on Mr. Cordell Hull's Kellogg Pact statement, the New York Times states that an attitude of benevolent interest yet official abstention is all that can be expected of the Government at present.

"We shall cheer on the endeavour of others by collective action to prevent war, but are compelled ourselves to stand apart while others seek to achieve what is really one of our own vital national interests."—Reuter.

tain and Italy, and I am anxious for anyone in Europe to find a settlement that will do justice alike to the Abyssinians' national rights and Italy's claim for extension."

Sir Samuel stressed the heavy responsibility resting upon them all to help the cause of peace in Europe, and added: "We as a great empire, must never be tempted to use our advantages in a churlish or foolish manner. That is why I spoke of our readiness to consider the question of making better use of the world's economic resources and a freer distribution of colonial materials."

AMERICAN REACTION
Washington: While the members of the State Department refused to comment officially, there are obvious indications that Sir Samuel Hoare's speech has been received at Washington with considerable sympathy, and the United States is hopeful that the speech will aid in achieving a peaceful settlement.

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, said that the State Department was watching the situation very closely, with a view to taking advantage of every possibility to co-operate, in the light of American policies, for the preservation of peace. The United States had not communicated with any other Government on the Ethiopian question.

SURPRISE FROM LAVAL
Paris: The belief that M. Laval would speak at the League of Nations conference was a surprise.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON IS NOT ALLOWED BAIL BUT AUTHORITIES ARE PUZZLED

BROADWAY STAR THOUGHT TO HAVE COMMITTED SUICIDE

Westchester, Penn.

To-day.
Mr. William H. Parkes, District Attorney, declared that the shooting of Miss Hoey looked so much like suicide that he felt justified in accepting bail for Rogers. He added that the authorities were unable to break down the story that Rogers was downstairs when Miss Hoey was shot.

After conferring with Mr. Parke, however, Mr. Grubb, the county detective, announced that Rogers and Kelly will not be released, but will be held without bail until the inquest, a week hence.—Reuter.

IMPORTANT CLUES
An earlier message stated that Henry Rogers junior, son of the late oil millionaire "Huddleston" Rogers, was arrested on technical charges in connection with the body of Miss Evelyn Hoey, a Broadway musical comedy star, found shot dead in the bedroom of Rogers' farm at Coatsville.

A pearl handled pistol was lying at the feet covered with blood, an automatic was found on the bed, and a worn off shot-gun in a corner of the room. The affair was stated to have occurred last night.

Rogers told the police that Hoey after an argument went upstairs alone. A shot was heard and he dashed upstairs and found the girl lying on the floor.
